

ArborTags

The leaves are 1-2 inches long, pointed at the tip and slightly notched at the base. They are finely saw toothed with downy hairs on the underside of the young leaves.

www.arborworks.org

Amelanchier canadensis

Shadbush

Serviceberry

Amelanchier canadensis

Shadbush

Serviceberry

The flowers are about an inch in diameter with 5 narrow white petals and a rose-like yellow center. Being a member of the rose family, the resulting fruit is a small apple-like product growing in clusters.

www.arborworks.org

©1996 American Association of Amateur Arborists

Often found with multiple trunks and many crossing branches, the Shadbush grows as a large bush from 8-20 feet high. The bark is light gray and smooth.

www.arborworks.org

Amelanchier canadensis

Shadbush

Serviceberry

Amelanchier canadensis

Shadbush

Serviceberry

The Shadbush is an early spring bloomer displaying an abundance of white blossoms before the leaves unfold. It blooms when the shad ascend the rivers to spawn - giving the tree its name.

www.arborworks.org